Rich brights are a great way to inject colour into an outfit during the colder months, and this Hester van Eeghen bag is perfect for the task. Red and orange are always favourites at this time of year, and purple is one of this season's foremost colours. Van Eeghen designs all of her products in Amsterdam before travelling to Italy to oversee the manufacturing process which she trusts to small workshops and to carefully selected craftsmen. The Monocle is one of her classic styles and it will look as good now against black knits as it will with a clashing floral dress come spring. HL
